- A current Federal Government employee, selected for a detail, will be assigned to the position at his or her current grade and salary.

Component Mission

The National Counterterrorism Center (NCTC) leads our nation's effort to combat terrorism at home and abroad by analyzing the threat, sharing that information with our partners, and integrating all instruments of national power to ensure unity of effort. The Center serves as the primary organization in the United States Government (USG) for analyzing and integrating all intelligence possessed or acquired by the USG pertaining to terrorism and counterterrorism, and its Director serves as the Counterterrorism Mission Manager. NCTC also serves as the central and shared knowledge bank on known and suspected terrorists and international terrorist groups, as well as their goals, strategies, capabilities, and networks of contacts and support. In addition, NCTC conducts strategic operational planning for counterterrorism activities, coordinating and integrating the efforts of departments and agencies across the Federal Government.

Major Duties and Responsibilities (MDRs)

- Apply analytic approaches and techniques to gain an in-depth understanding of complex analytical issues and incorporate insights into comprehensive and sophisticated intelligence briefs that are tailored to meet the intelligence needs of some of the organization's most important customers.
- Develop and deliver tailored and insightful intelligence briefings to senior United States Government (USG) and/or senior IC officials on key national security issues.
- Maintain contact with customers in the organization and IC in order to understand their changing needs and requirements, and gather, compile, and report information that meet their needs.
- Collaborate with component and IC analysts to develop intelligence reports and other information that meets specific customer needs; request written products or briefings based on customer requests or interests and ensure that the tasking is suitable, clear, and comprehensive; review requested products to ensure that they meet the tasking requirements.
- Maintain and continually expand personal expertise on a full range of current intelligence and policy issues that provide the background and depth of understanding required to compile and support daily intelligence briefings to the senior IC officials.
- Compile and support the development of effective briefing materials for customers that incorporate finished intelligence products, raw intelligence background notes, and other relevant information that is synthesized, organized, and compiled in the delivery of an effective oral briefing; anticipate likely questions and develop responses using background information, acquired materials, or information provided by IC experts.
- Obtain necessary information for customer briefings and answer customer questions using provided background information, acquired materials, or information furnished via consultation with IC experts; exploit internal and external online databases, pose and obtain answers to questions from appropriate organizational and IC sources, synthesize relevant raw intelligence, and consult with peers, colleagues, and components as necessary.
- Develop and maintain effective relationships with colleagues in the ODNI and other IC organizations by providing appropriate feedback on written products; interact with IC officials to help shape intelligence questions for follow-on products and gain an in-depth understanding of the policy interests and intelligence needs of IC colleagues.

Mandatory and Educational Requirements

- Ability to develop and support the delivery of comprehensive and sophisticated intelligence briefings to senior IC officials and other senior administration advisors; ability to collect, compile, and synthesize intelligence materials that accurately and effectively address customers' needs and questions.
- Writing and oral presentation skills and the ability to clearly express information to individuals at the highest levels of government and anticipate and answer their questions.
- Thorough knowledge of key US foreign policy and national security objectives for key regional and transnational issues and ability to stay informed of current trends and developments and ability to work under tight time constraints with multiple daily deadlines.
- Situational judgment and interpersonal, negotiation, and networking skills to collaboratively build strong team relationships across occupations and organizational boundaries with customers, service providers, and staff.
- Thorough knowledge of analytic tradecraft and understanding of component and IC community policies, capabilities, and procedures; knowledge of key US foreign policy and national security objectives for key regional and transnational issues.
- Analytic and critical thinking skills and an ability to think strategically and recognize the policy relevance of intelligence products and raw intelligence.
- Ability to review a large body of information and distill relevant products for inclusion in comprehensive, sophisticated daily intelligence briefs under tight time constraints and multiple daily deadlines; ability to efficiently prioritize, perform multiple tasks, and change focus quickly as demands change in a fast-paced, time constrained environment.
- Ability to exercise sound judgment, tact, and integrity in managing interactions with USG officials and colleagues in the ODNI and IC.
- Ability to establish regular contact with customers in the USG and internal persons of importance and influence, involving tact and discretion in the handling of difficult situations.
- Ability to work in a fast-paced rotating shift environment consisting of nights, weekends and holidays.
