Component Mission

The National Counterterrorism Center (NCTC) leads our nation's effort to combat terrorism at home and abroad by analyzing the threat, sharing that information with our partners, and integrating all instruments of national power to ensure unity of effort. The Center serves as the primary organization in the United States Government (USG) for analyzing and integrating all intelligence possessed or acquired by the USG pertaining to terrorism and counterterrorism, and its Director serves as the Counterterrorism Mission Manager. NCTC also serves as the central and shared knowledge bank on known and suspected terrorists and international terrorist groups, as well as their goals, strategies, capabilities, and networks of contacts and support. In addition, NCTC conducts strategic operational planning for counterterrorism activities, coordinating and integrating the efforts of departments and agencies across the Federal Government.

Major Duties and Responsibilities (MDRs)

The Pursuit Group is a targeting unit within the National Counterterrorism Center (NCTC) that provides intelligence and analysis to operational elements of the US Government to assist in the disruption of terrorist activities against the Homeland and US interests abroad.

- Plan, research, develop and communicate in-depth analysis of targets, networks, and issues to key operational components and senior leaders in the Intelligence Community (IC), law enforcement, and the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI).
- Plan, prepare, and present written and oral briefings to operators and senior internal and external customers on significant intelligence issues; explain complex concepts to non-expert customers and tailor the product to correspond to customer needs.
- Develop and implement strategies and mitigation initiatives to address gaps and shortfalls in collection and analytic capabilities across the USG.
- Lead, plan, direct, and coordinate the preparation of multi-disciplinary targeting analysis that supports key US national security and foreign policy objectives and helps shape IC analysis and priorities.
- Apply a full range of methodological tools and approaches to gain a comprehensive understanding of complex analytic issues and incorporate insights and findings into well-crafted sophisticated intelligence products.

- Develop and implement strategies for gathering intelligence, or historical information, in support of US interests and policy objectives; cultivate and identify key internal and external sources of relevant information that meet customer and self-derived needs.
- Cultivate and maintain productive working relationships with colleagues, experts, IC members, policy committees, and law enforcement agencies as appropriate, and use these relationships to share information of interest; attend training courses, seminars, or conferences on substantive areas and tradecraft.
- Build and leverage diverse collaborative networks within the ODNI and across the IC.
- Develop substantial expertise and drive your account to become and acknowledged subject matter expert.

Mandatory and Educational Requirements

- Demonstrated ability to produce analytic targeting products and briefings on key targets, networks, and issues for operators, collectors, and policymakers at the highest level of government.
- Expert ability to use link analysis tools and demonstrated ability to incorporate methodological tools and approaches to research, analyze, and present data (modeling, SATs, social network analysis, etc.).
- Demonstrated analytic and critical thinking skills, including superior ability to think strategically and continuously overcome obstacles.

Desired Requirements

- Familiarity with a broad range of IC and law enforcement tools and databases.
- Familiarity with the legal authorities and roles of a broad range of national-level IC and law enforcement agencies.
- Ability to travel domestically and overseas for short periods.
