NATIONAL INSIDER THREAT TASK FORCE

INSIDER THREAT HUB OPERATIONS COURSE - 2027

This two-day course introduces the minimum standards for Executive Branch Insider Threat Programs that exercise basic functions of hub operations to deter, detect, and mitigate potential insider threats. The course will examine Potential Risk Indicators (PRIs), identify risk levels, and cover various mitigation recommendations using practical, scenario-based exercises designed to enhance the participant's ability to perform-case management capabilities. The course may include General Counsel, a Behavioral Specialist, and other specified insider-threat professionals.

Target Audience:

Federal Government employees (military, civilian, and contractors) who directly support Government Insider Threat Programs, and other multidisciplinary stakeholder positions.

Registrants are limited to .gov or .mil email correspondence for distribution of materials for official use.

Method of Instruction:

Microsoft Teams.

Course Length:

16 hours (two eight-hour days for virtual courses). All course times are Eastern Time.

Prerequisites:

None required; however, attendees should have a foundational knowledge of insider-threat, hub operations.

There are CDSE courses that may provide additional materials.
